Sir Gawain and the Green Knight

Sir Gawain and the Green Knight was written by an unknown English poet towards the end of the fourteenth century. This was a very important time for the English language. After the Norman conquest in 1066, French was the main language for the aristocracy and for government.

However, English gradually became dominant and the late fourteenth century saw a remarkable flowering of English language, with great writers like Geoffrey Chaucer and William Langland.

During this period, as all Europe was going through the horrors of the Black Death, England was involved in the Hundred Years' War with France (1337-1453) which helped to develop a feeling of English national identity.

Sir Gawain and the Green Knight is a classic example of Arthurian literature, popular in Europe in the later middle ages. The story is about the knightly values of bravery and honesty.
